An audit principal with Haskell & White, Carlos Martinez has successfully navigated the regimented world of public accounting to rise into leadership quickly. He was promoted to principal four years after joining the firm. His experience ranges from facilitating angel and venture capital financing transactions for development stage companies to transactions involving mature companies with seasoned management, and capital raises for SEC registrants. Martinez's patience and tenacity set him apart from other young professionals. His drive motivates him to take on additional responsibilities well before others with similar experience. He is active in several business-oriented groups. With the Association for Corporate Growth chapter, he is arranging San Diego's first capital connection conference, planned for 2020. Through it, organizers hope to bring much-needed private equity to San Diego.
